I am so sorry you have got landed with all this in my absence. It's maddening being out here and not able to take care of it.

Re Dawn's list of requests can I just suggest that you might want to check before giving her the 35 withheld documents? Some of them are ministerial papers from a previous administration and I seem to remember there is a rule about not giving out such papers to the next government.

I can't think of anything else that you might not be aware of. I see Dawn seems keen on giving them more money which I guess might be possible if it is a one off sum and we can find it from this year's underspends across the department.

I do hope we can avoid a public inquiry though. There is nothing new to be learned from it - it would just be a colossal waste of money!

Regards
Liz
