7.	There is a letter in H hospital records that suggests H was told that he had hepatitis C on the 20th August, 1991. I produce a copy of this letter in evidence and refer to it as WITN2120003. He did not tell me he was infected and I only found out in the late 1970's when the Scottish Blood Transfusion Service told me I was not able to donate blood because of H infected status. It would seem that they knew he was infected in the late seventies but did not make H aware until 1991. This made me feel very bitter towards H at the time because I believed he would have known he had hepatitis but in hind sight he might not have been given this information. I did not raise it with him afterwards as our marriage has not been in a good place for many years. From a letter dated 8th May, 1990 from Doctor Lowe in H hospital records it would seem he is recorded to have a degree of chronic non A non B hepatitis in 1983. This is hepatitis C but it was called non A and non B at that time. Doctor Lowe says in the letter that it was common for haemophiliacs treated in the past with blood products to have non A and non B hepatitis. I produce a copy of this letter in evidence and refer to it as WITN2120004.
8.	H told me that in the early days when he received the blood products, he stated that there were no details or information provided to him about hepatitis C.
9.	Adequate information was not provided to understand and manage the infection to my knowledge. This is what H had told me but he did not explain why.
10	.I do believe that information about H infection was provided to him.

because H did not tell me. H provided me with no information or view about how he felt about this.
12.I don't know what information was provided to H about the risk of spreading the infection, he never mentioned any risks to me and indeed did not even tell me he was infected for all these years.
Section 3. Other Infections
13.I have no knowledge or information about any other infection that H has contracted as a result of the infection. I do remember conversations he had with other haemophiliacs, who had been infected, on the phone where he talked about vCJD but he didn't speak to me about that. I note there is mention in his hospital records relating to a hospital admission of vCJD. I produce this record in evidence and refer to it as WITN2120005.
Section 4. Consent
14. I believe that H was tested without his knowledge. The information that he was infected was in his medical records and he was not aware he had been tested for hepatitis until 1991. There is evidence in H hospital records that he was also tested for HIV I do not believe H knew he was being tested for that. I produce medical entries in evidence and refer to them as WITN2120005 and WITN2120006.
15. I believe that H was tested without his consent. Again the information was in his medical records and it follows that if he was not told the test was being conducted, he was not giving consent.
16. I believe that H was tested and treated without being given adequate or full information as the information was in his records but he was not advised of this for many years as far as I am aware. I found out what hepatitis was available in the media.

16. I cannot say if H had been tested or treated for the purposes of research.
Section 5. Impact
17. I think it is difficult to really put into words the physical and mental effects of H being infected. As we were given no information about the infection it is difficult to understand how he felt. I am aware that he was not happy about the results as well as not being told they were testing him for this. The physical effects for H were tiredness and feeling the cold. Whether it was warm or cold he always felt the cold. The heating in the house was on 24 hours a day. From an employment perspective when he was working for GRO-B Glasgow, I remember one occasion someone being asked to go somewhere in Scotland and he could not be considered because of his health status. GRO-B My view is that H attitude towards me had changed, it just got progressively more extreme over the years. He spoke at me rather than too me. He was personally abusive to me. This became more noticeable over the years before he died. He was doing this from the 1990s. I do think there are underlying mental health issues or maybe slight depression. He may have discussed this with his GP, but he does not go into detail with me. I do feel he was taking out his mental health issues on me though.
18.I am aware of tiredness as a further medical condition from infection. Homeland of tiredness, over the years which started in the early 1990s. It is difficult to say what it was related to though. The tiredness became more frequent but it did fluctuate. He had no issues with things like his liver.
19. Over time, the course of his illness has predominately been dominated with tiredness. I think as the tiredness increased and the feeling of the cold increased, he was finding things harder. I can't make judgements on his physical ability, he was able to walk, but he was unable to walk far.

20. H had no treatment for hepatitis C but he was offered treatment. He do not accept the offer. I don't know why, he showed me a letter that he was offered treatment on the 21 June 2015 from the consultant Ewan Forrest Glasgow Royal Infirmary, offering him treatment of Harvoni, which is combination treatment of two medicines called Sofosbuvir and Ledipsav H has stated he would not go and get treatment and I could not	as at a ir.
understand why he made that decision.
21.I am unaware of any difficulties or obstacles that H has faced in accessing treatment historically, as he refused treatment as recently as 2015. There a letter in H medical notes dated 16th November 1995 that shows he was offered the treatment and was a good candidate for the Interferon. know he didn't have the treatment but I have no idea why. I assume he refused it. There is a letter in his hospital notes saying H was not anxious for the treatment. I produce these letters in evidence and refer to their respectively as WITN2120007 and WITN2120008.	is le le
22.I am unaware if there are treatments which I consider ought to have been but were not made available to H	ut
23. There were no mental and physical effects of treatment for H as he refused treatment for reasons that are unknown to me.	е
24. There are a few matters that I am aware of in regards to treatment for othe conditions with H As far as I am aware, if he required treatment a hospital for anything, he was treated as an infected person. He was isolated and if surgery was required, he was the last person on the list for the day, so the operating theatre can be cleaned and disinfected afterwards. I was a midwife in the 1990's, therefore this regime is familiar to me. I consider it unfair to make any comment about this regime at any hospital, because recognise these rules and why they are in place.	at d o a it is a degree of stigma around infection, however that didn't really create a problem for us. Our friends and family have been supportive. We could describe factually what was occurring for H to other people when necessary and people seemed to accept this.
25. I don't think hepatitis C has had a significant negative impact on our life. There	9

26	had early retirement due to organisational restructuring when he was 59, when he retired. Following that, he really made a point of being involved with committees and organisations which became his full time job and kept him occupied. He didn't have a hobby, he didn't like sport because of the Haemophilia, so this is what he took his time up doing.
27	. We have one son he was born in 1982. From this point of view, our son could not play sport with H This was probably not nice for either of them. I don't think it affected my son otherwise though. H became aware he was infected when my son was aged 9. My son did not understand what hepatitis was and he doesn't ask about it now. This does not mean he has not asked his dad however.
28	H was rarely off sick from work. He certainly wasn't off for any lengthy spells. He took early retirement in 1995 but this was not related to hepatitis C. He worked in social work and his retirement was due to organisational restructuring.
29	H probably could not have got a mortgage on his own. The house is in both of our names. There are things like home insurance and holiday insurance that has always required me to apply. The premiums are a lot higher because he was infected. We had joint bank accounts and there was always a pressure on me to be in employment because there was no guarantee with a haemophiliac that he was going to be able to work continually. I took early retirement as well due to organisational change in the NHS. GRO-B My employment came to an end on the GRO-B 1995 when I was made redundant, just months before H Was made redundant at the end of GRO-B 1995. I have not returned to GRO-B as a condition of my redundancy package was that I did not return

Section 6. Treatment/Care/Support

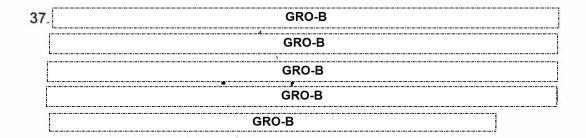

30). I have had no involvement in H care historically. What I do recall is that when I attempted to donate blood in the late 1970's, the blood transfusion service said they couldn't take blood from me because of my husband's health. On reflection, the blood transfusion service knew something I did not know about my husband's health. That is how I found out that he had had hepatitis C. He had never had the decency to tell me he had been diagnosed with this. I have a degree of bitterness about this. He never explained to me why he chose not to tell me. H never required assistance with his care and support in consequence of being infected, he was always able to manage himself. I am unaware if H asked for psychological support but I do wonder if this would have been something that he would have benefited from.
