sorry
I meant not detected <12

he's had a lot of medical issues to deal with in the past, but I suspect that any follow up issues with clinic appointments etc were not for the want of invites being sent seems more engaged now

Dear Jonathan

Don't know what happened to his ID follow-up. Can't find the letter on portal that suggests it was "dormant". Not sure what he would have meant by that i.e. whether he felt the Hep C wasn't contributing to any appreciable clinically apparent problems, or whether he meant there was evidence of past cleared infection. In terms of looking at effects on the liver, I would be more inclined to look at a fibroscan score (not sure if he has had) rather than just LFTs, markers of synthetic function and ultrasound. The fact that the HCV RNA was <12 suggests he probably has past cleared infection rather than ongoing infection. If that is the case then I think it is unlikely that Hep C is contributing to his renal deterioration. However I would generally check a further RNA test to check that it remains <12 before coming to that conclusion. It would also be relevant to know if the result was "Detected <12" or "Not Detected <12".

I have copied this e-mail to Susan my secretary to ask her to appoint to the Hep Clinic (Susan can you let me know the date you arrange)?

Thanks

Claire
