Richard

Please can you email Frank Hill and/or Charles Hay and ask them to provide asap a statement (from the UKHCDO) saying that holding X months of stock clotting factor products is regarded as good practice in the management of supplies by Haemophilia Centres. Then we can use this statement to reassure anxious auditors as in the email below.

Thanks

Julia

Julia,

PCT's are happy to release the money. That is not the problem. Haemophilia Centres are not prepared to buy in what would be considered by auditors as excessive stock without explicit written approval from the DOH. There is also in some instances difficulty in physically storing such quantities. We also asked, on behalf of our main Centre for written agreement that they could use income deferral to carry the allocation into next year. They would then have used it to buy stock in April/May. However that approval has not been received and the Trust are not prepared to proceed without it. We are working with the PCT's and Trusts to ensure that in some way we can carry forward any unspent allocation into next year so that we don't lose the money.

David
